

“Four centuries of history are reflected in the buildings and landscapes that are New York’s glorious legacy from the past. Thoughtful owners and dedicated preservationists have kept an amazing array of these treasures intact, and many of the most notable are presented here in evocative photos by Andy Olenick and fascinating text by Richard Reisen. Every architecture buff – whether professional historian or amateur building-watcher, lifelong New Yorker or stranger to the Empire State – will find something new, engaging, and wonderful in these pages.”
